Frp trough-type cable tray

Overview

Trough-type FRP cable tray is a cable tray with a trough-like shape made from fiberglass reinforced plastic, combining the benefits of a specific design with the advantages of a particular material. They offer excellent protection for cables from dust, debris, and external elements. Ideal for environments where cable protection is paramount, these trays are often used indoors or in areas with a lot of particulate. A Frp trough cable tray is a device used for cable management, mainly used to support and protect cable wiring in buildings, industrial facilities and other places. It is designed to provide a stable and reliable way to lay cables to ensure the safety, neatness and maintainability of the cables. Our non-conductive GRP / FRP cable tray systems provide electrical insulation compared with metal cable management systems, with an open and accessible tray design that supports straightforward. Sintex FRP Sections are manufactured from an advanced formulation of thermosetting polyester resin with fiber glass reinforcement, on state-of- the-art, electronically controlled pultrusion plants.
